The Senior Issue

Letter to the Class of 2023

Yay! We made it! Congrats! After four long, crazy, some-times difficult years, we've finally made it! When the pandemic hit in 2020, we all thought it would be just an extra long Spring Break. When we spent the rest of our freshman year online, many of us felt isolated and struggled to find the motivation to finish the year strong.

Sophomore Year, most of us found that the hybrid schedule at least allowed us to see friends, classmates, and teachers, and the 9:00 a.m. start was a welcome change in the schedule that we hoped would hold over into the dreaded Junior year ahead.

But . . . no such luck! We were back to the old 8:00 am start! Despite our hopes of a permanent 9:00 a.m. start being dashed, this year, Ignatians found joy in the little moments, even if it meant talking to friends through plexiglass at lunch tables. When we were not at school, we were filling our days with ACT/SAT prep and juggling all of our tricky APs.

Senior year, we were lucky enough to see our high school lives return to normal. College applications began. Sports were back. We enjoyed a season of football games with packed stands, a Homecoming dance, Harlequins musicals, an unprecedented basketball season, and a renewed school spirit. Friendships were strengthened and the Wolfpack was back and better than ever. Instead of dreading being assigned to eat lunch in the tents, we were able to go outside and eat on the bleachers, play football with our friends, and sit at the picnic tables. For the first time ever. We were able to see our classmates embrace their talents, whether it be sports, SIMUN, Harlequins, Robotics, or a thousand other things that allowed us to share our talents.

This year seniors were able to fully experience the magic of Kairos in person. Despite the difficulties of the pandemic, the Saint Ignatius community found ways to stick together. We were lucky enough to have formed friendships freshman year that remained strong and withstood the test of isolation. When life started to return to normal, we seized the day and made new friends. We took advantage of being in school again: discussions, simulations, class parties, food.

We loved being back in school! Who knew? From sports seasons, clubs, naps in the big chairs in Foglia, silly pranks in Tully, and school dances to the little comments in class that annoyed our teachers at times but we loved, this Senior Class did not take the small moments that make our community stronger for granted.

The Class of 2023 might be considered the luckiest class. We have been lucky enough to have a half of freshman year, an almost normal junior year and a full senior year. Because of all this time spent in virtual and hybrid learning, Ignatius classes were fairly isolated from one another. Thus, when we came back to school, with other grade levels and twice as many students as before, becoming the leaders of the school was a difficult transition, but our Arrupes were up for the challenge.

The first part of our senior year often included advice on how to guide the younger students to start becoming the men and women for others that Ignatius molds. But quickly enough, we were able to take on that leadership role and become examples for the rest of the school - welcoming in the lunchroom, showing underclassmen the ropes at Ignatius, and being guides for younger students in our classrooms. We were willing to stand up and be models of who Ignatian men and women are supposed to be.

As we graduate, we will go off to several different schools. Some of us with classmates that will move on with us, some of us going alone. Some of us are staying close to home, some of us are traveling hundreds of miles. Saint Ignatius has given us the foundation to make the most of every opportunity and possibility and a community we can rely on and come back to when we eventually make our way back home.

To the faculty, staff, and other members of the Saint Ignatius community who helped make our experience so special, and to the parents and family members of the graduates, thank you for everything you do and all of your support.

Class of 2023, congratulations; go forth and set the world on fire!

AUGUST 21, 2019: A great welcome today for the Class of 2023...including the Pep Band, our Arrupe Mentors, and even a few alum siblings joining in the fun. Welcome to the Wolfpack!
